

Challenges to our faith come in all forms: the storms of life, the doubts we face, or the insecurity we feel. In this rotating series, EJ Brown, Emmanuel Dominguez, and Taylor Walling will take us into stories in the Gospel to show how God meets us when our faith feels questionable.

These questions are designed to extend the impact of the weekend message. Use them to go deeper in your personal study time, with your family and/or with a group.

1 What is the furthest distance that you have ever walked? (A distance that was ran or driven also count as valid responses). Where were you headed?

2 Read Luke 24:1-12. The angels reminded the women at the tomb that Jesus had told them that he would die and resurrect in 3 days. What are some promises from God that are hard for you to remember or believe in seasons of doubt? Why?

3 Read Isaiah 53:3-5 three times over. The first read is simply reading the verses with an open heart and mind. For the second read, become aware of how you feel and how your mind reacts to certain words or phrases. Make a note of what stood out and how you reacted. Lastly, read the verses and ask God “what do you want to tell us?” Take note of any question, feeling or thought that arose in you and share the journey with the group. Remember, God guides us into more revelation.

4 Look over Luke 24:13-36. Retell what happened in your own words and offer one takeaway for your group to put into practice this week.

5 Lastly, take turns sharing about a time that you felt distant from God. What did God do to remind you that He is near? Pray over each other that God will allow you to see the miraculous.
